Sustainable living through community engagement giving our communities an eco-advantage

One-day conference
Thursday 19 January 2012,
from 10am to 4pm

Carnival Hall, Council Road, Basingstoke, RG21 3DH

We all have our part to play in addressing the impact of climate change. But what skills do communities need to be better prepared and contribute to a better living environment?

This one day conference will explore how getting communities involved can contribute to sustainable living. It will be an opportunity to hear about current initiatives in the South East and to exchange ideas and good practice.

Conference programme

Morning

Keynote presentations

- Terena Plowright, founder of the Greening Campaign
- Andy Molloy and Martin Heath, co-founders of the Basingstoke Transition Towns Network
- Irene Heller, The Sustainable Living Book, Lead Partner, EcoAdvantage
- Chris Large, Global Action Plan

Afternoon

Panel discussion

How can we engage communities in sustainable living?

Keynote presenters and other experts will share their experiences and try to answer this question.

Workshops

Two case studies:

- The Greening Campaign in Sherborne St John
- The Greenhouse Challenge in Medway
